Rules For the Holiday Season By Lance Cordle

As we enter the "core" of the holiday season, please allow me to remind us all of some things we can do to make and keep it a joyous time for us all: Be careful about your spending. Stick to a budget. Life does not consist in the quantity or price of things (see Luke 12:15).

Do something for others. Whether it is with a group or on your own, give a little extra to help someone in need. In your plans (parties, etc.), try to include those who may not have plans of their own (widows, singles, couples who live far away from family, etc.).

Face your negative feelings. If you are sad about a loved one who is no longer alive, think about them and face the sadness, but end your contemplation with a reflection of the precious memories and the positive influence of that person on your life.

Use part of your time to take personal inventory and set goals for the coming year. Try to avoid too much self-criticism, but be realistic in your evaluation. Prioritize and set some attainable goals (not too many at once) for yourself in the new year.

Enjoy the happy moments. Try to truly savor the times of celebration. They will serve you well as sweet memories in the years to come. Count your blessings!!

A lighter Side

When my daughter, Kelli, said her bedtime prayers, she would bless every family member, every friend, and every animal (current and past). For several weeks, after we had finished the nightly prayer, Kelli would say, 'and all girls.' This soon became part of her nightly routine, to include this closing. My curiosity got the best of me and I asked her, 'Kelli, why do you always add the part about all girls?'

Her response, 'Because everybody always finish their prayers by saying 'All Men!' Proverbs 17:22 "A cheerful heart is good medicine..."
