TO OUR FRIENDS:

But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control. Against such there is no law. Gal 5:22-23 (NKJV)

Have you noticed that this description is singular? Paul is not telling us to reflect one or two of these characteristics while ignoring the others. Indeed, the follower of Christ will be all of these things.

There are times when I have been asked to be a reference. When I do this, I take these verses into consideration. It is not enough to be faithful in attendance if I don't see the other aspects of the fruit of the Spirit living in you. More importantly, does God see you living this description?

How will you be referenced by Jesus at the judgment: "Come, you blessed of My Father", or "Depart from Me?" (Matt. 25:34,41)
