Whose Hand It Is In
By Paul Ciniraj

You place a basketball in my hand and we can play a pickup game of basketball.

You place a basketball in Michael Jordan's hand and you get six NBA championship rings. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place a football in my hand and I can toss it to my grandson. You place a football in Peyton Manning's hand and you get a $19 million dollar contract. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place a mathematical formula in my hand and you get confusion. You place a mathematical formula in Albert Einstein's hand and you get the laws of relativity. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place a rod in my hand and I can beat an angry dog away from me. You place a rod in Moses' hand and he will part the Red Sea. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place a stone and a slingshot in my hand and you get a kid's toy. You place a stone and a slingshot in David's hand and you slay a giant. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place two fish and five loaves of bread in my hand, and you get a couple of sandwiches. You place them in Jesus' hand and 5,000 men are fed. It just depends on whose hand it's in.

You place some nails in my hand and you might get a birdhouse. You place nails in Jesus' hand and you get the forgiveness of sins. It just depends on whose hand it's in.
